DUAL TRAGEDY IS CALLED SUICIDE

Coroner's Jury Finds C. R. Stabler and His Wife Both Swallowed Poison

LETTERS FOUND IN ROOMS

Bichloride of mercury poisoning was the cause of the death of Constantine R. Stabler and his wife at their home at 205 Luella avenue. This was the finding of the coroner's jury at the inquest conducted by Coroner James T. Heffran at the undertaking rooms of Deputy Coroner L. B. Frye this morning. The jury expressed itself in its verdict that the poison was taken by both the man and his wife with suicidal intent.

Important testimony was offered by the few witnesses heard. Dr. Edwin McKay gave what perhaps was the most important of all. Monday night he performed an autopsy on both Stabler and Mrs. Stabler. He found evidences of bichloride poisoning but the condition of their bodies was such that he could not positively determine particulars. Dr. McKay stated that from the evidences Stabler himself had taken the poison in comparatively small doses at different times, but the condition of Mrs. Stabler's body showed she had swallowed the poison in liberal quantities. This indicated probably that her death potion had been swallowed later than his.

The verdict rendered was as follows: "We the jury find that Constantine R. Stabler and Lillie V. Stabler came to their death at their home on or about November 25, 1915 from bichloride of mercury poisoning, which we believe was self-inflicted with suicidal intent." The verdict was signed by the following jurymen: I. P. Hepler, foreman; Allen S. Mansfield, Harry C. Hepler, J. A. Glasser, James B. Dixon and Alva Pyle.

Witnesses heard were Thomas Rosbottom, Frank Glover, Deputy Coroner Frye, Dr. Edwin McKay and J. R. Chalfant.

Monday afternoon Deputy Coroner Frye managed to get in touch by telegraph with the mother of the woman in Philadelphia, but she telegraphed back she could do nothing

THREE ARRESTED AND LIQUOR CONFISCATED

Raid Made on Owls' Nest at Brownsville—Trio Held Under $500 Bond For Fayette County Court.

The owls nest, located in the Bend on Market street, Brownsville was raided Sunday about midnight by County Detective John J. Smith, Squire C .C. Garletts, Chief of Police A. C. Patterson, Patrolman Barber and Greaves. Three men were caught and 40 cases of beer and one of whiskey confiscated.

The men, Edward Verron, Joe Fawcett and John Drabick were held for court in $500 bail each, charged with selling liquor without license and on Sunday.

Complaints have been made that the shift which should go on at the glass works at 12 Sunday midnight, has never been full and it is alleged that tarrying at the cup of the Owls' Nest has been responsible for the shortage.

The building in which the nest is located, stands on a hillside. The first floor entrance is from Market street but the room in which the men and liquor were found is three stories below the sidewalk, looking out on Water street, still further down.

ROCKEFELLERS TO AID THOMPSON

Such is Story Emanating From Uniontown and John D., Jr., is Expected

CREDITORS FORM COMMITTEE

A powerful financial interest will finance the liquidation of the indebtedness of J. V. Thompson providing the many creditors will get together and form a creditors' association, declared A. Plummer Austin a member of the committee of the Thompson Creditors' Association Monday when that body met at Uniontown. The promise of plenty of financial backing for Thompson has stirred the committee to hurry the organization of a creditors' association.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr. and ex-United States Senator Clarence W. Watson of West Virginia are expected to arrive today and hold a conference with a number of Uniontown attorneys in reference to taking over the Thompson holdings. It is said the Rockefeller interests will make a proposal to take over the Thompson holdings, assume his debts and give Thompson $5,000,000.

The Creditors' Association, as now existing is preparing to organize a permanent committee to represent the Thompson creditors in the adjustment of the affairs of the latter. This committee will be strictly a creditors' committee and will be composed of Pittsburg, West Virginia and Fayette county creditors. Every effort will be made to organize a Creditors' Association this week.

Although the members of the committee are making every effort to avoid the settlement of Thompson's affairs through bankruptcy, Mr. Austin contends that even should it be necessary to resort to bankruptcy proceedings it would not greatly depreciate the prospects of the creditors or subject every bank in Washington, Greene and Fayette counties to failure as has been predicted.

STAHLMAN HEADS SCHOOL BOARD

Directors Re-Organize for Year at Meeting Monday Evening---Reports Made

APPROPRIATION RECEIVED

Following out the provisions of the new school code newly elected directors of the Charleroi school district were sworn in Monday evening and officers elected for the year. W. D. Pollock the late president of the board was sworn in to succeed himself and John B. Campbell took his seat as a member.

The officers elected were as follows: President, Dr. F. C. Stahlman; vice president, R. C. Mountsier.

Important reports of the condition of the treasury were made. During November the school appropriation for the grades, amounting to $7,729.07 was received, boosting the school receipts for the month considerably. Kerfoot W. Daly, treasurer, reported total receipts amounting to $9,168.08 and disbursements of $7,359.66. The amount of a balance remaining in the treasury was reported as $23,-092.66.

Tax Collector J. W. Mathias reported collections during November of $862.13. Bills were ordered paid by the extent of $2,250.39.

The meeting was an important one, inasmuch as the old board passed out of existance and a new one was created. The present members of the board, with the officers are as follows: Dr. F. C. Stahlman, president; R. C. Mountsier, vice president; Dr. T. M. Faddis, secretary; W. D. Pollock, H. J. Booth, T. R. Eagye and John B. Campbell. The treasurer Kerfoot W. Daly is not a member of the board.

CLAIM ITALIAN WAS MURDERED

Burgettstown Man Identified---Believed He Was Fleeing From Crime

TWO KILLINGS CONNECTED

When the body of the Italian who was found dead, presumably murdered, on the highway between Burgettstown and Cherry Valley Friday was Monday identified as that of Dominick Articelli, of Mingo Junction Ohio, it was learned by the county detectives that Articelli was the alleged murderer of an Italian at Mingo Junction the night of November 28. The description fitted perfectly. After the Mingo Junction murder the assailant fled. It is believed the victim's friends followed Articelli and came upon him suddenly in the lonely stretch of road where his body was found. The county detectives are now at work trying to trace down the murderer or murderers of Articelli.

The man mentioned was 35 years old and leaves a wife and two children. Following the finding of the body Friday, Detective Mitchell arrived at the scene of the crime and it was largely through his efforts that the identification of the body was brought about. The detective knew of the Mingo Junction affair and went there in an effort to join the two mysterious cases. There he found a clew that helped him and in following it, discovered that Articelli at the time of his death had been fleeing from the friends of the man whom he had killed.

CALLAGHAN CANDIDATE TO SUCCEED WOODROW WILSON

Such is Story Published Elsewhere—Charleroi Man Politically Active, it Seems.

The Monessen Independent says: "Hon." Edward Callaghan of Charleroi who once honored Scottdale by making it his abiding place is a Democratic candidate for president of the United States. Mr. Callaghan, while there made and mended shoes. By some freak circumstances he was elected a member of the state legislature where he distinguished himself by introducing a resolution to abolish prayer in the general assembly of the state. He annually offers himself upon the altar of his country as a candidate for some office, but somehow without success. Mr. Callaghan declares that Woodrow Wilson should not be allowed to succeed himself and in order to prevent such a catastrophe he will throw himself in the breach.

WILL RIGIDLY ENFORCE LAW

Department of Labor and Industry to Take Drastic Steps in This State

SPRINKLING DEVICES GOOD

Inspectors of the State Department of Labor and Industry have been ordered to take drastic action to prevent the blocking and obstructing of fire escapes on factories, tenement houses and public halls.

Labor Commissioner John Price Jackson has directed Lew W. Palmer, Chief Factory Inspector, to issue further instructions to inspectors throughout the state to arrest and prosecute, without delay, persons responsible for blocking exits to fire escapes or for placing obstructions of any kind on steps or landings of fire escapes.

The laws forbidding the blocking of aisles in factories and public halls and the laws requiring fire drills in factories will be rigidly enforced. Installation of automatic sprinklers and automatic fire alarm systems are urged by the commissioner for factories, hotels and other public buildings.

An appeal is made by Commissioner Jackson to every factory employe, occupant of a tenement house, patron of public hall or private citizen to notify the Department of Labor and Industry by letter or in person where a fire escape is blocked or similar laws are violated.

MORNING MAIL TRAIN PROMISED

Much Longed for Service to Be Feature of New Schedule Effective Sunday

RADICAL CHANGES ANNOUNCED

A much longed for early morning mail train for the upper Monongahela valley promises to be forthcoming with the change of schedule to be made along the Monongahela division December 12. This will be in a through Fairmont train that will leave Pittsburg at 8:30 o'clock daily, arriving in Charleroi at about 9:50. Printed schedules showing the several changes are now in course of preparation, but none have been received here.

The morning mail train is something that local business men have been striving to secure. At the last meeting of the Business Men's Association the matter was taken up, when indication was given by the report of a committee that there was something to be hoped.

In the past morning mail from the east and west has been brought from Pittsburg to Monongahela by a Marianna train and there thrown off. Sacks remained there until the train which arrived in Charleroi at 11:25. The earlier train which came through Charleroi and went on to Fairmont was too early to catch either the eastern or the western mail.

The new train promises to be about the best mail train the Monongahela valley ever had. Through cutting the number of stops it will be made an exceedingly fast train and will complete the trip, Pittsburg to Fairmont in little more than four hours. It is scheduled by the new arrangement to arrive there at 12:45.

Several definite and radical changes will be effected in the valley schedules. A new train will start from Monongahela at 5:20 in the morning and arrive in Pittsburg at 6:55. Train No. 145, Brownsville to Pittsburg, and passing through Charleroi at 6:37 will be discontinued. The morning train to Fairmont as stated will start from Pittsburg at 8:30. From Fairmont the evening train will start at 4 o'clock, arriving in Pittsburg at 8:10. This will make a good theatre train. It will stop at Charleroi about 6:50.

One newly arranged train will be that of the night train leaving Pittsburg at 6:30 o'clock for Monongahela where it will be due at 7:40. By connections with trolley car this will enable up-river people to make good connections with Charleroi.

Because open fire places were unprotected and because children of tender ages didn't know as much as their parents should have known three lost their lives last week. They died awful deaths. Their flesh shrivaled and blackened when their clothing took fire and they succumbed after the most horrible suffering imaginable. Coroner Jas. T. Heffran points out a sad truth, that we are careless. He cannot place responsibility upon any person for criminal negligence in causing the children's deaths, though some blame might be laid to those who failed to take cognizance of the danger. To place responsbility on any one person for criminality would be to place it on a large majority, for all classes are guilty of the same sin of neglect. People get into the habit of considering themselves safe from danger because they have escaped thus far, but this won't do. We must have better precautions about open fire places, or eliminate them entirely.

Information comes that the price of coal has been considerably boosted within the last several weeks. not through any desire of the local men and not through any act of theirs. but through advances in the price of hauling. Those in adverse circumstances. where poverty's heavy hand has been felt, will suffer. The increase may seem just in some quarters but in others it will seem about the most unjust thing in the world. It is too bad we can't get together better on economic questions and adjust them on an equitable basis satisfactory to all.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The late George Fitch the humorist of Peoria, Ill. whose pocket essays attracted widespread attention is responsible for the following "dope" of the furnace:

At this time of the year the furnace begins to come bitterly to our attention. It is a peevish ruin which makes its lair in the cellars of plain people and contributes to the horror of winter by declining to give forth heat in a blizzard because the chimney wasn't manicured inside during the autumn.

The furnace is composed of a large cracked firebox surrounded by a sheet iron hogshead. It is operated by a system of checks and drafts although one may of course. pay cash and get just as good results. It is connected with the various rooms in the house by large tin pipes. which serve to transmit cuss words from the cellar to the upstirs and it is connected with the chimney by a pipe which serves to transmit heat into yon high heaven. When a furnace is working vigorously a stratum of warm air a mile high over the house is sometimes produced. Thus the furnace is the sparrow's friend but until some means of locating the living room directly over the house is devised it will not be doing its full duty toward humanity.

The hot air furnace is so named from the manner in which it is sold. We are led to believe. when buying a No. 13 furnace on an E last, that it will readily heat a 9-room house so thoroughly that a coat and vest will be entirely superflous. even on the front porch. This is only partially true. The furnace will not heat the house by means of the pipes and registers, but if sufficiently flattered and encouraged, it will eventually ignite the floors and make everything lovely and warm until the fire department arrives.

A furnace can be readily operated during the winter by one man if he makes arrangements to have his meals brought down cellar to him. By shoveling your spring overcoat, your club dues, your summer vacation. and your winter's theatre tickets into your furnace you can keep it burning all winter except on zero nights. A furnace is quite hardy and by wrapping on old carpet around it on very cold days you can keep it from becoming dangerously chilled!

Some people claim that they can run a furnace all winter on $24 worth of coal. and that by putting in two shovels full in the morning they can maintain a fierce heat until evening. Do not worry about these statements. however. Go ahead and discount them with claims of your own. This is a free country and everybody can lie in it.

LICENSE TROUBLE TO BE AIRED IN COURT

Former Holder of License Sues Owner of Property at Donora to Recover Sum Alleged Due—Balance Claimed to be Owing.

An echo of the controversy that arose between Edgar G Morse, former proprietor of the Hotel Irondale at Donora and holder of the liquor license for that house and C. Frank Cardon owner of the house, present holder of the license and proprietor of the hotel is heard in an action filed Monday. Mr. Morse has instituted suit against Mr. Cardon to recover $1,215.27 with interest from May 13, 1915, alleged due under the terms of a certain agreement entered into by the plaintiff and defendant following their differences.

The defendant, as a result of the controversy with the plaintiff, refused on May 1, 1915 to extend the lease held by the plaintiff. Both Messrs. Morse and Cardon were applicants for a liquor license for the Irondale hotel. It was apparent that had both applicants gone before the court neither would have been granted.

It is averred that under the agreement entered into the plaintiff agreed to withdraw his application for a license and the defendant was to purchase from him the furniture, fixtures, stock in trade and contents of the hotel and to pay the same in cash on May 1, 1915. Three arbitrators were agreed upon and the personal property above set forth was appraised at $7,300.45. The saloon stock was appraised at $899.56. It is claimed this appraisement was accepted by both plaintiff and defendant.

The plaintiff, it is further averred, received and accepted the property above referred to, with the exception of two empty kegs for which a credit of $2.50 is allowed. Credit is also given the plaintiff for payments of certain sums and interest. The balance however alleged unpaid is $1,215.27.

WILL PAY INTO COURT SCHOOL MONEY REFUSED

In the matter of the appropriation of land for school purposes in Fallowfield township, upon petition, an order of court has been made directing the payment into court by the school district of said township the sum of $550, awarded to Hannah Cooper. This amount she refuses to accept. The sum to be paid will also include interest from June 29, 1915. No exceptions were taken to the viewers report, but she refuses to take the amount awarded her.

IRREGULARITIES ARE ALLEGED IN ACCOUNT

L. G. Walker of Uniontown a son of the late S. G. Walker of West Pike Run township, who died leaving an estate worth between $400,000 and $500.000 has filed a petition in which he charges James W. Walker another son and Samuel E. Taylor, two of the executors of the estate, with the improper disbursement of large sums of money out of the estate. He seeks to surcharge these two with amounts that total $120,664.02. Other irregularities in the account are averred.

The petitioner himself was one of the executors, but sets out that after the filing of the first account he was not in close touch with all the receipts and expenditures of the estate; and generally all transactions regarding the estate—with the exceptions of the execution of deeds conveying real estate—were performed, he states, by James W. Walker and Samuel E. Taylor, the other two executors and that since the first account was filed no funds have been received by him, the petitioner or disbursed by him.

A citation has been awarded on the two executors. The petitioner asks that a decree be made setting aside and revoking the confirmation of the account filed by James W. Walker and Samuel E. Taylor at the November term this year and that he, the petitioner, be allowed to file exceptions generally to said account. as though the order of confirmation had not been made. In his petition he sets forth that, relying on statements made to him, he did not know the account was to be filed at the time it was filed and that he did not learn it had been filed until after the same had been confirmed.

fire proof material exterior fire escapes where they pass doors or windows is pointed out by the Commissioner He explains that a fire escape, even though properly constructed, may be useless as a means of escape in time of fire if tongues of flame can shoot from open doors and unprotected windows to prevent safe passage of persons from upper floors.

The recent fire in a Pittsburg factory, where twelve girls and one man were killed and the fire in Brooklyn, where thirteen girls lost their lives, are cited by Commissioner Jackson as reasons for the adoption of every precaution to protect human lives and especially the lives of women workers in factories.

"While it is true that automatic sprinklers are manufactured by private concerns for profit, their installation in factories and public buildings is more than a commercial proposition. It is a matter of saving lives and property." declared Commissioner Jackson.

"A comparativeiy small blaze in a factory is sufficient to melt the fuse attachment of an automatic sprinkling system and the subsequent action of this sprinkler will in most cases prevent conflagrations, keep down the smoke and will prevent the clothing of women workers in factories from geting on fire. Similarly the heat from a small fire in a factory will start in operation the automatic fire alarm system and will bring the firemen and fire fighting apparatus to the burning building without delay.

"The expense of installing sprinkler systems is offset by the reductions which follow in fire insurance cost. The owner of a structure. equipped with automatic sprinklers saves ultimately by the reduction of his insurance premium. I even understand that some sprinkling concerns will install systems in factories and will take in payment the savings effected in fire insurance cost over a term of years.

"There is, however, no excuse for blocked fire escapes. If a fire escape is to be blocked it might better never have been erected for all the good it will do in time of fire. The inspectors of this department are instructed to make every effort to eliminate such unnecessary hazard.

"Every citizen is urged to write or call upon this department giving detailed information of dangerous conditions that in time of fire or panic might cause a loss of lives."

VERDICT DISLIKED, CENTERVILLE BOROUGH ASKS FOR NEW TRIAL

The borough of Centerville, by its counsel, has filed a motion for a new trial and for judgment nothwithstanding the verdict in the suit brought against it by Dr. A. C. Smith in which he was awarded $2,500 damages.

It is averred the verdict was against the weight of the evidence and that the court erred in leaving to the jury the question of whether or not the plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence. even if they should find that the accident happened in a manner entirely different and inconsistent with the plaintiff's story on the witness stand.

"THE NATION'S PERIL"

A Stirring and Vivid Plea for National Preparedness Is Visualized In This Five-Reel Lubin Photoplay—Released Through V. L. S. E., Inc.

"Peace hath her victories, as well as War," but there is something in the average human being that makes him, or her, enjoy the victory a great deal more if it comes as the result of a stubborn contest. The sight of marching men, of a great fleet in battle array, of mighty guns belching forth flames and the missiles of death—all "the pomp and circumstances" of War—how it quickens the blood and stirs the soul of even less ardent patriots than Col. Roosevelt! When these things are shown on the screen, as part and parcel of a vivid plea for National preparedness, coupled with a well worked out love story and all the concomitants of an engrossing photoplay, the combinations must appeal to every good American. Such a picture is "The Nation's Peril," the five-reel Lubin drama, written by Harry Chandlee and George Terwilliger, and produced under the direction of Mr. Terwilliger.

The scenes of the drama are laid at Newport, in the year 1918, and the ruler of a foreign nation, who has apparently paid no attention to the peace propaganda of William J. Bryan, decides to attack the United States. A young naval officer is the hero of the story, and an aerial torpedo, of his invention plays an important part in the plot. Foreign spies, a secret wireless station, harbor mines controlled by the enemy, and a masked battery on shore also occupy their places in the action; and, when it comes to the battle scenes, the Atlantic fleet, under Admiral Fletcher—ships, men, landing forces and great guns—are employed in the most realistic manner. The night attack on land is particularly well done, but the most aweinspiring incident of the fight is the cannon fire of the big ships, as the bursts of flame light up the gloom. The vivid red glare of reality has been imparted to the flash of the powder. Another incident that arouses enthusiasm concerns the heroine. Tricked by a foreign spy into betraying her country, she seizes her father's sword from the wall and kills this enemy of Uncle Sam's. It is hardly necessary to state which side is the winner in this suppositious war. The naval officer here receives the proper reward at the finish of this splendid object lesson to the peace-at-any-price adherents.

Earl Metcalf and Ormi Hawley head an excellent cast, which also inclues William H. Turner, Arthur Matthews, Herbert Fortier and Eleanor Barry. Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, appears in the picture; also Admiral Cameron McRue Winslow, Admiral Fletcher, Vice-President Mayo, and the officers of the Naval Training Station at Newport.

FOR BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, BRONCHIAL ASTHMA AND WHOOPING COUGH

Cheapest Remedy Made at Home—128 Teaspoonsful for 25 Cents.

The first 300 persons calling at Piper's Pharmacy will be entitled to a regular 50c bottle of Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectorant for half price (25c) by presenting the coupon below, properly signed. With a view to giving those who have not yet used this new excellent remedy an opportunity of trying it, in the treatment of Bronchial affections, including Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Croup, Severe Coughs, Colds and Hoarseness, to prove its merits, these druggists are willing to allow the public the profit which they would otherwise make and the proprietor is willing to lose money on the same, so as to give them an opportunity of trying it, at partially their expense, knowing it will be found the best medicine ever used by anyone.

Even though not in need of a Cough or Cold medicine at the present time, it will pay to buy now, as some such medicine is sure to be required before the winter is over, but this remedy cannot be obtained at less than full price again. Besides making this reduction, these druggists guarantee this remedy just the same as Dr. Schiffman's famous Asthmador, and will return the money in every single instance if it does not give perfect satisfaction andeven more—if it is not found thebest remedy ever used for any of the above complaints.

This excellent remedy is sufficiently concentrated so that 50 cents' worth when mixed at home, with simply one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water (according to printed directions) makes a whole family supply (128 teaspoonsful) while bottles of the old, regular, ready-made kinds, of doubtful merit, and without a guarantee, usually average 20 to 32 teaspoonsful.

It is prepared from strictly harmless plants, contains absolutely no chloroform, opium, morphine or any narcotic or injurious drugs which do most cough remedies, and can therefore be given to children with perfect safety. It is pleasant to take and children are fond of it. Besides absolutely no risk is run in buying this remedy whatever, on the guarantee of the above, well-known, reliable druggists who will refund your 25c if it is not found the best remedy ever used.

If a neighbor or friend could be induced to divide and pay for half the quantity, the cost would thus only be about 12c to each.

TWENTY-FIVE CENT COUPON NO. 1

COMPANIONSHIP

By DOROTHY BLACKMORE.

Because George Keene liked Elsie Cartright very much he once asked her to take one of his favorite walks with him. This led them across the Hudson and up over the bluffs of the Palisades. It included a country dinner at the humble home of a Jersey farmer, at which the guests sat down with the host and his family and the whole hearty meal, from stew to pie, was put upon the table at once.

Since that day Elsie had avoided him, and he had learned from the laughing lips of Peggy Arnott—who knew Elsie well—that the girl was not yet free from the effects of that day in the country.

"You should have known, George, that Elsie Cartright is the last girl who would welcome a sunkissed nose. Don't you know that her beautiful skin is the joy of her life?" Peggy had asked merrily. "And you know Elsie was crazy about you—everyone knows it," she added.

George sniffed significantly. "So much for my best efforts at companionship with girls," he sighed.

Autumn was advancing rapidly and the wonderful reds and yellows of wood and meadow were drawing Keene to Long Island, where he spent that season. He bought his monthly ticket and began early to commute from his office to the country.

On the occasion of his earliest tramp into the woods he felt unusually lonely—more so than ever before, he told himself dismally. And then, as if to emphasize his solitariness, he chanced upon three happy picnickers building a fire over which to brew their own coffee. He observed that the girl and her mother were dressed in outing clothes and that they wore low-heeled boots and looked comfortable and happy. He thought of those absurd heels of Elsie and was glad that all women were not so silly.

"That's a bunch after my own heart," he commented mentally as he observed the father comfortably smoking as he sat on a fallen tree and watched the women of his family preparing the picnic meal.

"Doesn't this beat a dinner dance all hollow?" he heard the father ask.

"No more of that regular life for me," the girl sang merrily as she poked the fire. Then she stopped and looked at her father and mother. "If I could find a man I could like as well as you like father and who cared for this sort of thing, I'd—well, I'd marry him, I believe," she said. "But, alas, these men I've known have cared more for a ripping foxtrot and a good lobster supper than for this simple amusement."

Keene heard it all. And as he wandered slowly on he heard the girl scream: "Oh, dad, chase this dog away! I hate strange dogs. He's after our dinner!"

Here was another common interest—her dislike of dogs and his—strange dogs, at least. He had heard of the companionship of canines, but he had failed to see into it. He had never yet seen the dog that knew a toadstool from a violet or a sunset from a sunrise, so he had failed to be convinced of their value as human companions.

Nevertheless the incident gave him an idea. He assured himself that he must get acquainted with that trio by fair means or foul.

His neighbor had a horribly vicious looking dog that was as gentle as a turtle dove.

Two days later, accompanied by the vicious-looking canine of his neighbor, Keene strolled through the woods in which he had seen the trio of picnickers. The dog had been carefully starved during the entire day and was ravenous. All of which was exactly as Keene wished it to be. The poor beast sniffed under every bush in the hope of unearthing even an ancient bone.

Keene's heart beat fast as he approached the picnic spot. A juicy steak was being grilled, and even Keene's own mouth began to water at the fragrance of it. And how that fragrance affected the hungry dog was almost beyond description, so quickly did it happen.

The dog dashed. Keene dashed after him. They both landed in the midst of a surprised trio. "He's as gentle as a lamb!" Keene kept crying "He wouldn't bite anything!"

"No—he looks like it." Mr. Nevin managed to say as the dog made frantic efforts to get at the broiling meat.

"Oh, I'm frightfully sorry," said Keene, almost as earnestly as if he had not planned it all and was tickled immoderately at the success of his ruse.

The mother and daughter stood aside and laughed long and heartily. "We really can't blame the poor thing," said Molly.

And then followed informal introductions and, after the coveted invitation to dinner, Keene tied the dog to a tree and promised him the tag and bones of the steak, with Miss Molly's permission.

After the embers of the fire had been raked out and the quartet was strolling aimlessly about the woods Molly ventured a remark that pleased Keene more than any simple words he had ever heard.

"I thought you would manage to know us," she said.

"Trust me to manage anything I want as badly as I did your companionship," he said.

PROPER WAY TO MAKE BED

Seems a Simple Proceeding, but There Are Some Methods Preferable to Others.

To make up a bed so that it will be smooth, tuck the clothes in, one piece at a time, at the sides, and complete the work all but tucking the clothes in at the foot. Now draw the clothes down, one piece at a time, as taut as possible, and tuck them in at the foot. The bed will be far neater looking then would be otherwise possible. If the bed is of iron or brass, which does not permit of tucking in the coverlet, tuck in the other clothes as directed, placing the coverlet over all.

A new way to make beds is as follows: Sew two short loops on one end of each covering, these loops being the distance apart of the width of the bed and equally distant from the corners of the coverings. Then take a brass rod cut just as long as the bed is wide, and cover it with a thin padding of cotton and some durable material. This rod is run through the loops of the bed coverings and tucked in at the foot of the bed.

When the bed is put to air, the bedclothes may be readily thrown back without becoming separated. This device is especially adapted for children's beds, or is good to use when there is illness in the home.

Training the Child.

There is a common belief that a child, when left alone, or to its own resources, is resting mentally. If this were true, he would remain a total stranger to the rest of the world, whereas he is like a traveler in life, who observes and comments upon everything that is new to him. He not only makes spontaneous effort to understand, but to imitate.—Doctor Montessori.

EASY TO DYE AT HOME

NO NEED TO SEND MATERIALS TO PROFESSIONALS.

Housewife May Save Much Expense and Achieve Equally Good Results by Doing the Work Herself—Some Useful Hints.

In almost every household in the spring and fall there are articles for household and personal use that must be sent to the dyers. These can be done equally well at home.

Now that one dye can be bought which will answer alike for silk, cotton and woolen fabrics, success is well enough assured if the directions on the packet are strictly followed. These are usually explicit, and experienced dyers need no other; but the amateur is apt to strike snags despite directions. She may not think it necessary to clean the article to be dyed, but oil or grease of any kind kills dye, so that any garment known to be greasy at all should be soaked in a warm solution of ammonia and water for half an hour, then thoroughly rinsed in hot water before going into the dye pot. Cotton goods should be washed in hot soapsuds and given a thorough rinsing. To leave soap in will interfere with the dye.

When dyeing cotton or mixed goods they should be allowed to become cold in the dye bath. Dyes set very slowly in these fabrics, so the cooling process is necessary to success. Woolens, on the contrary, absorb the dye quicker, and may be rinsed while hot. Closely woven woolen goods should be boiled a little longer than those loosely woven.

Woolen goods of any weave should never be allowed to boil fast. A gentle simmering will bring the best results. If boiled violently, the tiny hairs mat and cause shrinkage, besides making the material close and board-like.

The fiber of linen, being harder and tougher than that of wool, silk or mixed goods, requires longer and faster boiling. Linen should be allowed to boil until the desired shade is obtained. This will be longer than in the case of the other materials mentioned.

Silks are so often weighted with fillers that on dyeing them they will fall apart. It has been proved that sixteen ounces of silk can, with fillers, be made to weigh double that amount. Good silks, satins and ribbons will dye satisfactorily, but it is a waste of time to bother with cheap silks. It will be better to wash them through and use for linings or trimmings when making over garments.

Two different articles may be dyed to match if they are the same color before being dyed. If otherwise, it is practically impossible to dye them to match, but they will dye black.

The home dyer should guard against overdyeing. Use only the quantity given in the directions.

Never wring dyed articles too firmly, and always dry in the shade. The dyeing process goes on until the article is dry, consequently any portions exposed to the sun will dry quickly and the result will be a streaky garment.

Pennsylvania Man Gets Quick Remedy for His Long Suffering Stomach.

Henry F. Curry of the Hotel Bartlett at Cambridge Springs, Pa., suffered most desperately from ailments of the stomach and digestive tract for years. He spent a fortune in the pursuit of health.

At last he happened to discover Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. He found relief quickly. Mr. Curry wrote:

"I have spent thousands of dollars for doctors and medicine and hardly got temporary relief, and before I took your medicine I was about discouraged. But after taking your medicine I got great relief. My mental and physical suffering had been so bad that I had to resort to morphine, and even with that I did not get much relief. Your remedy helped me wonderfully. I have a good appetite, sleep well, and have gained weight."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. READ THE MAIL

Lime-Loss in Tuberculosis

In the Journal of the American Medical Association (January 17, 1914) was the following:

"It has been many times stated that in tuberculosis or in the pretuberculosis stage an increased amount of calcium (lime) is lost, both in the urine and feces. In fact, a demineralization has been thought to be a forerunner of the development of tuberculosis . . .

"Forced feeding of tuberculosis patients and the enormous amount of eggs and milk once given such patients are not now considered advisable by a large number of physicians who are specializing in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis."

If tuberculosis is due to a loss of lime from the system, the success of Eckman's Alterative in the treatment of this disease may be due, in part, to the fact that it contains a lime salt so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated.

Always we have urged users of Eckman's Alterative to attend strictly to matters of food.

In addition to rest and proper diet, some effective remedial agent seems to be needed, and in numerous cases of apparent recovery from tuberculosis and kindred throat and bronchial affections Eckman's Alterative has supplied this need.

It does not contain opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so it is safe to try. Your druggist has it or will order it, or you can get it from us direct.

HAD BRONCHIAL ASTHMA

So Badly Man Could Not Lie Down—Cured by Vinol.

For years and years we have been telling the people of Charleroi that Vinol is a wonderful remedy for bronchial troubles. Here is positive proof:

Tilden, Ill. "For five years I suffered from bronchial asthma. In the winter time I was obliged to sit in a Morris chair all night as I could not lie down owing to that dreadful choking sensation. I tried nearly every known remedy, but nothing gave me any relief until one day I met the Station Agent at Willisville, Ill., and hesaid he had been a sufferer for years, but had been cured by Vinol. I at once commenced to take it and the result is my cough is gone my appetite has improved, and I can lie down and sleep all night and my experience leads me to believe that Vinol is a certain remedy for bronchial asthma." John H. Concell. Tilden, Ill

The reason that cough syrups fail in such cases is because they are palliative only, while Vinol removes the cause, being a constitutional remedy in which are combined the healing elements of fresh cod livers, together with tonic iron and beef peptone. It strengthens and revitalizes the entire system and assists nature to expel the disease. Piper's Drug Store

COUNCILMAN SUBJECTED TO VICIOUS KNIFE ATTACK

Frank Saewaka, a foreigner, is at present lodged in the West Brownsville jail as the result of a cutting affray which occurred in front of the Diamond Coke and Coal company's store at Brownsville Saturday evening about 9 o'clock.

Saewaka, in company with several other foreigners who had been drinking freely, was standing around the store on Bridge street using loud and offensive language to passersby Edward R. Reed, a councilman, coming along at that time, cautioned the men to be quieter. As he turned to go Saewaka drew a knife and jumped upon him inflicthing a deep gash in his back. Joseph Davis, seeing the fight ran to Reed's assistance and also received several cuts around the face and head before bystanders finally overpowered the foreigner.

South American Industry.

The sap of the sapodilla tree is very largely used in the manufacture of chewing gum. The tree is cultivated in Mexico and Central America, and the method of collecting the sap, called "chicle" is very similar to that employed in extracting maple sugar. Mexico alone in 1910 exported chicle valued at $170,000, which will give you a good idea of the extent of the chewing gum industry.

STATE DEMONSTRATIONS WILL BEGIN THIS WEEK

Orchard of Dr. J. K. Smith Along With Others to be Visited by State Men to Show How to Produce Best Orchards.

State [illegible] demonstrators will begin the [illegible] of a six or eight weeks' series of orchard demonstration which will cover every county in the state. The series probably will be more extensive than those given heretofore and special attention will be given to the pests which have appeared this year.

The dates for Washington and Greene counties are as follows:

Washington—H. E. Taylor, demonstrator.

Wednesday, December 8 W. M. Thompson, Washington, R. D. No. 7.

Thursday, December 9, Dr. J. K. Smith, Charleroi.

Friday, December 10, California Normal school, California.

Greene—H. E. Taylor, demonstrator Monday, December 6, C. K. Cornelison, Waynesburg, R. D. 4.

Tuesday, December 7, Charles Church, Rogersville.

At Dr. Smith's there will be a free lecture in connection with the demonstration. How to do practical orchard work, including pruning, spraying, cultivating and fertilizing will be shown. Those attending are invited to take twigs and specimens for examination and determination and to ask questions and obtain information on all orchard subjects. Bulletins and other literature will be distributed free.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA ARRANGING CONCERT

The Charleroi Symphony orchestra, consisting of about forty of the leading instrumentalists of the Monongahela valley from Monongahela city to Brownsville and under the leadership of Jean DeBacker, the noted orchestral conductor of Pittsburg will make its first appearance in concert next Monday evening, December 13, in the high school auditorium. Miss Vera Kaign, considered one of Pittsburg's leading sopranos, will contribute two numbers one of which will be an aria from Verdi's "La Traviata" with orchestral accompainment. Miss May Barth will accompany Miss Kaign on her second number. Tickets are selling rapidly, much interest being shown by the general public in the first public appearance of the organization.

"THE RAVEN" TO BE SHOWN AT MAJESTIC THEATRE

Henry B. Walthall one of the persons starring in "The Birth of a Nation" will enact the leading role in "The Raven" which is the attraction for today at the Majestic theatre. This six act drama carries out the spirit of Edgar Allan Poe's poem of the same name and is a romance in the life of Poe. Mr. Walthall is ably supported in the interpretation of the play by Warda Howard. In addition to this feature good comedies will be shown and special music will be rendered by the Majestic orchestra. One of the best screen features ever produces, "The Nation's Peril" will be shown at the Majestic Thursday of this week. Earl Metcalfe and Ormi Hawley will be seen in the leading roles.

Nellie Truxal Clark.

Nellie Truxal Clark, aged 5 years the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Clark of Gibsonton died Sunday morning. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The girl was a granddaughter of L. M. Truxal, editor of the Belle Vernon Enterprise.

DUAL TRAGEDY

because of lack of funds. An effort was made also to get in touch with others.

Trunks were opened as well as dresser drawers and letters and whatever was procurable secured by the police and deputy coroner Monday afternoon. In an examination of the letters it was learned that when Stabler started writing pre-nuptial letters to the woman, who was at Baltimore he addresssed her under the name of Nellie V. Hanford. In one of the letters that he had written her and that she had saved it was apparent that this was not her name, but that after their engagement she had confided by letter that her right name was Clapp. Her marriage certificate showed her name to be Lillie V. Clapp.

The bodies of the two will be interred, and the sensational affair brought to an end. The Pennsylvania Railroad, for which Stabler worked and from which a relief department check was held at the time of his death, took an interest in the affair, but their investigations are closed also. George H. Vought of Wilkinsburg was here this morning, representing the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen to attend the coroner's inquest. When the bodies were found a letter addressed to him was likewise discovered which Mrs. Stabler had written intending to send a money order to pay her husband's dues.

BONECKI PUTS MUHLBAKER DOWN TWO OUT OF THREE
